

CONSTANT ACHING.

Back aches all the time. Spoils your appetite, weakens the body, worries the mind. Kidneys cause it all and Doan's Kidney Pills relieve and cure it.

H. B. McCarver, of 201 Cherry St., Portland, Ore., inspector of freight for the Trans-Continental Co., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for back ache and other symptoms of kidney trouble which had annoyed me for months. I think a cold was responsible for the whole trouble. It seemed to settle in my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills rooted it out. It is several months since I used them, and up to date there has been no recurrence of the trouble."

It's Quality that Counts.

The Mexican Herald pokes fun at the papers in the United States for mentioning people when they pass their 100th birthday. The Herald says that centenarians are too common down in Mexico to attract attention, but that when a man or a woman passes the 120th mark it sits up and takes notice. A hundred years in the United States, however, is worth 200 years in Mexico.—Boston Globe.

WORK OF WICKED FLEA.

Caused Delay in Docking of Big Ocean Liner.

The flea is a small animal, but his ability to make trouble for big ships seems unlimited. The fleas which dwell on the Pacific mail liner City of Peru, arriving this morning from Panama, says a San Francisco dispatch, were particularly busy. As a result of their operations, three of the passengers, Mrs. Emma Schnedersay and the two daughters of Louis Hirsch of Castle Bros., sought the ship's surgeon's advice.

The doctor examined small red spots with which their bodies were covered and declared that they had smallpox. The boarding surgeon shared the alarm and the ship's doctor and a tug was sent for Chief Surgeon Cummings at Angel Island. The three medical men held a consultation and to Dr. Cummings belongs the honor of finding out the secret of the fleas.

He saved the quarantine records from ridicule by declaring the passengers were afflicted with a "parasitic disease." The fleas delayed the vessel in docking the entire forenoon.

BABY'S TERRIBLE SORE

Body Raw With Humor—Caused Untold Agony—Doctor Did No Good—Cuticura Cured at Once.

"My child was a very delicate baby. A terrible sore and humor broke out on his body, looking like raw flesh, and causing the child untold agony. My physician prescribed various remedies, none of which helped at all. I became discouraged and took the matter into my own hands, and tried Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment with almost immediate success. Before the second week had passed the soreness was gone, not leaving a trace of anything. Mrs. Jeannette H. Block, 281 Rosedale St., Rochester, N. Y."

WHERE GAME IS PLENTY.

Newfoundland Declared a Paradise for the Sportsman.

L. F. Brown, the veteran angler and camper, writes in The Country Calendar:

"Brook trout and brown trout are not appreciated in Newfoundland, being far more common than are the perch and sunfish of the states. Catching them will soon surfeit the angler who casts his flies from the shore of almost any lake. Such catches are counted by the dozen—one lot of seventy-two dozen being brought aboard the train at Harbor Grace. One dozen ten-inch trout usually sell for 10 cents."

"There are 687 named lakes on the island, and 30,000 known ones, without names. The island has about 4,000 miles of seacoast, including that of bays like Bonaville, Notre Dame, Fortune, St. Mary's, St. George, Placentia and Bay of Islands. From one to six streams of clear green water empty into each of these bays. Every stream that reaches salt water is a salmon stream. Back from all that coast are other and easily reached streams that have not even a tradition of a fishnet, rod or hook and laker never mapped where one may camp and add to the fare wild geese and ducks, willow grouse, whose plumage turns white in winter; ptarmigan, plover and curlew. These camping places bring a unique sense of remoteness and solitude. Only one who has actually seen the wall of darkness around a camp fire in the Newfoundland jungles and over the tundras can understand the tinge of fear that sometimes becomes almost appalling in the vast solitudes."

Lincoln and Webster's Friend.

The late Hon. Charles W. Slack told the following of the Hon. Peter Harvey, the friend and biographer of Daniel Webster:

Mr. Harvey was a large man with a small voice and that pomposity of manner that many very diffident men possess. Above everything, he valued and prided himself upon his friendship with the "great expounder."

The first year of the war of the rebellion he went to Washington, and on his return was asked how he liked President Lincoln.

"Well," he said, "Mr. Lincoln is a very singular man. I went on to see him, and told him that I had been an intimate personal friend of Daniel Webster; that I had talked with him so much on the affairs of the country that I felt perfectly confident I could tell him exactly what Mr. Webster would advise in the present crisis, and thereupon I talked to Lincoln for two solid hours, telling him just what he should do and what he should not do; and, will you believe it, sir, when I got through all Mr. Lincoln said was, as he clasped his hand on my leg: 'Mr. Harvey, what a tremendous great calf you have got!'"—Boston Herald.

"Raise" in Prospect.

A prominent Washington clubman says that in the days of the old University Club at the capital there was a certain objectionable person, of the species of nouveau riche, who had succeeded in gaining admission to that club, now defunct, which was considered very exclusive.

One day this vulgarian became extremely noisy and offensive in the card-room; so much so that a certain indignant member of the club blurted out:

"See here! If you'll resign from this organization, I'll give you five hundred dollars."

The objectionable person left the room in high dudgeon. Chancing to meet on the stairway Walker Blaine, the son of the then Secretary of State, the aggrieved man related the incident, adding: "Now what shall I do about this?"

"I would advise you to stand pat," replied Mr. Blaine. "I think he will make it a thousand dollars."—New York Times.

Circle of Life Nearly Complete.

Stephen P. Steele, who practiced law in Peterboro, N. H., for a generation, was employed by a Boston man, who had purchased a piece of real estate in that town, to clear the title. This necessitated the purchase of a life interest in it, owned by an old lady. This interest was converted into an annuity, figured upon the probability of her life according to the regular tables.

After this period had expired by many years the Boston man wrote Mr. Steele, through whom he had made the annual payments, asking him how much longer he thought the old woman would live. Steele replied that she was then bent nearly double with age, and in a few years he believed her extremities would meet, and then she would live forever.

Choate Needed a Starter.

Harvey Waters, an expert on patent cases, had occasion to write Rufus Choate on some important question, and when he received the reply was unable to read a word of it, so took the missive to Mr. Choate and asked him what he had written.

Mr. Choate replied: "I never know what I have written after the ink is dry, but if you will tell me what it is about I will tell you what I have written." And he did.
